Has the Indian Claims Commission bought lapel, tieclasp or wristwatch microphones to gather undercover information?

A Senate Judiciary Sub-committee wants answers to these questions.

104 QUESTIONS

It has sent 104 questions, under 22 separate headings, to 34 Federal departments and agencies to follow up its preliminary investigation, which, it says, "has been quietly under way for several months."

Said Sen. Edward Long (D., Mo.), sub-committee chairman: "It is high time that the Congress knows how much and what kind of snooping is done by our non-security agencies.

"We know that the agencies purchase much fancy electronic gear. We want to take a long hard look at what it is being used for. Our right of privacy, as Americans, must be zealously guarded."

And so he has fired these questions, among others, at Government bureaus:

- How many listening-in circuits and-or telephone transmitter cutoff buttons (devices to permit a third person to monitor telephone conversations without being heard on the line) were installed on telephones of your agency in the Washington area as of June 30, 1964?
- · Has your agency, or anyone on its behalf, ever surreptitiously tapped or monitored a telephone?

- Has your agency purchased a miniature (under five pounds weight) tape or wire recorders which can be concealed in a desk drawer, in a brief case or on the person?
- · Has your agency purchased any lapel, tieclasp, pen, wristwatch, calendar, telephone, picture frame, parabolic, machine gun or other similar microphones?
- · Have your agency personnel or other security people working with or for the agency, discovered any telephone taps or other surveillance devices generally known as bugs?
- Has your agency purchased any closed-circuit TV equip-infrared photographic ment. equipment, one-way glass, or two-way mirrors?

- · Does your agency have an internal security force which consists of persons assigned to check on the loyalty and security of employes, agents and contractees of the agency?
- · Does your agency hire private concerns to do any of its security or surveillance work?
- · Does your agency either permit or prohibit the checking of the contents of desks of employes?

NOT FBI OR CIA

The questionnaires did not go to the Defense or State Departments, or to the FBI or the
